THE MILLS LODGING HOUSE.

from the NEW YORK PRESS.

Paradise soon will be within reach of 50 cents. This paradise is an earthly one. But it will be to the poor man more than to heaven to the rich. It will be a home with all the comforts of a palace.

It is the new lodging house built by D. O. Mills in Bleecker street. The building is about completed. It will be ready for occupancy before long, but it will not be

MULE DRIVER SETH.

Building of eight stories with a tower in the middle facing Bleeker street.

Mr. M. M. Smith, who is now lodging with the Rivington and Chrystie streets, to be known as Mills House No. 2, but the Bleeker street house will be opened first.

The Bleeker street house is really two buildings divided by the tower, the ground floor being entirely occupied by the stores. With this exception the entire ground floor in it kept him puttering around a little at odd times, and once or twice he had tried cooking for his company, but that was not his forte. The boys were not in his style. In fact, poor old Seth didn't seem to fit in anywhere and he hadn't seen in any satisfactory reason why he was living. Not that he ever did anyone any harm, but he just didn't seem to have driven his mules out of the road and

With a reading room and library adjoining; Seth furnished on a scale as luxuriously as may be found in many a well-to-do home. Right here it ought to be said that the commissary supplies—under escort—and a few stragglers. There were not more than twenty men—even if Seth were counted—on duty at the commissary. The commissary usually farther and further behind and under a cloud of dust proved that the regiment was still in line in front of them.

preparation a month it will have cost nearly, not quite, $1,000,000. Mr. MICEHESTER: I don't think that is a fair estimate. I think that the cost of the building will be about $1,000,000. The cost of the furniture will be about $1,000,000. The cost of the equipment will be about $1,000,000. The cost of the other things will be about $1,000,000. The cost of the building will be about $1,000,000. The cost of the furniture will be about $1,000,000. The cost of the equipment will be about $1,000,000. too, will be a marvel in its way, with conveniences for cooking for 1,500 persons. When, then, there will be dining accommodations for 1,500 persons. They will have nothing like it in the world. The famous growth house will not be in it. Mr. Mills' idea is to make it possible for a man to live in comfort for 50 cents a day. The house will be 100 feet long, 30 feet wide, 10 feet high, 100 rooms each, where you can lounge comfortably and thoroughly enjoy yourselves, and escape the present intense heat—take the Missouri Pacific Colorado fast express, leaving Kansas City at 10:00 a. m., and you will be within twenty-two hours' time you will be within reach of Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Manitou, Denver, Idaho Springs, Glenwood, Leadville, Silverton, Durango, and the charming spots for tourist's pleasure.
